DOE representatives will not attend nuclear forum

BY ELLIE R. CUEVAS
 Representatives of the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) will not attend a nuclear forum scheduled for this Sunday by Citizens Against Nuclear Disaster (CAND) in Hancock County.

DOE representatives, including the United States Department of Energy, are expected to attend the forum, which is being held at the Hancock County Courthouse in Waveland.

Also not expected are representatives from Battelle Memorial Institute, the engineering firm contracted by DOE to find suitable sites for disposal of the nation's nuclear waste.

The forum is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse in Waveland.

SIGN DESTROYED—Roland Harris, division manager of Jr. Food Stores, checks the remains of Waveland store sign destroyed in auto accident Monday night. The Waveland store's gasoline pumps also sustained damage as well as the store's electrical service. Over 1,000 residents of Bay St. Louis and Waveland were without power for approximately 35 minutes due to the destruction of two utility poles hit by the vehicle which also struck three autos. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

REPAIRS TELEPHONE CABLE—South Central Bell technician, James Scott, was among the telephone company workers repairing telephone cables damaged in auto accident on US-90 Monday night. Two utility poles were splintered by the impact of a vehicle driven by Troy Simpson of Bay St. Louis. Simpson also collided with three vehicles. Traffic was held up for more than three hours while police cleared up the accident. In addition to telephone company personnel, Mississippi Power and Coast Electric crews also were called to the scene. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Blackout

...the car then destroyed a Jr. Food Store sign which the store's gas station attendant, an Opel driver by Michael Cochran of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the parking lot.

The Simpson car then hit another utility pole and the energy cut the car traveling 107 feet and destroyed water fountain in front of the Exxon Station at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 101.

Roy Avon of Bay St. Louis was a passenger in the Simpson car.

Roland Harris, Jr. Food Store division manager, said that when he arrived at around 10:30 a.m. the parking lot was completely covered with debris.

Harris offered prizes for Mary Cuevas who was driving the store in Bay St. Louis. Harris immediately turned the main power switch at the accident location. Harris' thinking probably avoided further damage.

Mrs. Cuevas said she saw the car striking the utility pole and the food sign. I grabbed the power switch instantly. Sparks were flying all over the place from the fallen power lines. I had people tell me they saw the flames from five miles away.

Harris said that all his customers he arrived was nothing but cars, ambulances and fire trucks.

"They all got here very fast, police, ambulance and firefighters, every one knew what to do. They all have been very helpful to us at Jr. Food Store," Mrs. Cuevas emphasized.

Simpson had four passengers in his car, according to police. They included Stan Hatmaker, Annie Wynn, and Mike Stringer of Bay St. Louis and Karen Hack of Waveland who was reportedly most seriously injured.

Langston reported that he received a call from Hatmaker, RN, reporting the accident with multiple injuries.

The HGH administrator then called an external disaster plan into effect. "We had five doctors, all nursing personnel, had our evening staff as the night shift who were coming on-duty and lab people all at HGH before the first victim arrived," Langston stated.

Langston estimated that at least 25 people arrived within minutes for the treatment of the victims of the accident in addition to the two regular shifts.

Hack was transferred to Gulf Coast Community Hospital where she remained late Wednesday.

Kenny said traffic was held up for more than three hours on US-90.

A spokesman for Mississippi Power Company said that his crew worked until 3 a.m. Power was out for approximately 35 minutes.

The utility line was carrying 23,000 volts, according to the power official.

Bob Oehl, operations manager of Coast Electric reported that one of the poles struck was a feeder line to about 150 of their customers in the Waveland area.

The outages in Bay St. Louis involved the central and north sections of the city.

Power at the Food Store was not restored until Tuesday morning with damages to the entrance into the building requiring the services of a local electrician to make repairs.

Gasoline service at the store was not restored until late Wednesday. Repairmen from Green Oil Company, Hattiesburg, had to be summoned, according to the division manager of the food store.

Some damage was also inflicted on a South Central Bell Cable on the poles destroyed and repairs are underway.

Mike Pernicelli of Nucny Pernicelli Wrecker Service said they had to pick up the pieces of the auto.

Nucny Pernicelli stated, "We picked up the car which was in about six large pieces and many small ones."

John Masson of Masson's Exxon said this is the second time for his water fountain to be destroyed, as another vehicle had flipped over on it several years ago.

Langston was well pleased with the functioning of HGH during the crisis, as they had also lost power and had to rely on a generator.

Langston allowed, "We used the cafeteria to care for the less-injured patients. I was also impressed with the fact that there was little disturbance to the regular patients in the hospital."

The floor nursing staff continued their care for the floor patients as the accident victims were treated by the people mostly said.

"Everything looked like the way we started. The only problem was the failure of a copying machine. We had to write some orders twice instead of once and make a copy," Langston added.

Mobile Medic had two units at the scene. Also responding to the scene were Waveland Police, Waveland Fire Department, Hancock County Firefighters, Bay St. Louis Police, with Kenny investigating the accident for the Highway Patrol.

Passerby Jules Lagarde said Tuesday morning that it looked like a tornado had struck the area.

Real Estate Commission president cites home costs

Up, Up, and up! That's where mortgage rates have been going. I guess this is most appropriate inasmuch as the words "mortgage" and "murder" are related. The word mortgage means "dead (mort) pledge" (gage).

No one really knows the word's origin, however, there are several theories. One of the theories is that the original mortgage was a pledge to pay upon the death of a person. Another theory is that a mortgage is a pledge that the word "mort" means "death" and "gage" means "pledge".

Through the "dead" half (mort), the word mortgage is related etymologically to mortal, mortuary, morbid, morbid, amorous, murder, and mortally. Strangely, it is not related to the word morgue.

The word mortgage was used when the money is paid. Through the "dead" half (mort), the word mortgage is related etymologically to mortal, mortuary, morbid, morbid, amorous, murder, and mortally. Strangely, it is not related to the word morgue.

Chief Kenneth Fayard

Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard answered his last alarm in his beloved Waveland on Monday.

Chief Fayard, known by the name of Kenny to many, was born in New Orleans, but if you asked him, he would have told you Waveland was his paradise.

We can remember Kenny from many years ago, as we were raised on the same Waveland Street and were also in the Waveland Volunteer Fire Department.

When Kenny became chief of the Waveland Volunteer Fire Department it was in its infancy, and he was not much more than a teenager himself.

Many referred to the fire department as being a 'joke' because it had only an old truck that was broken down most of the time.

A handful of serious volunteers, like this mother-in-law, had the confidence that through hard work the fire department of Waveland could be the envy of many.

Just a few years earlier we can remember the main equipment for fighting a fire in Waveland as being a pine top.

Today, we can look at two beautiful fire stations, equipped with modern pumps, paid firefighters and active volunteer firefighters.

Kenny was able to provide the leadership as fire chief to do a lot with very little money.

A fine example of this is Waveland's Fire Station No. 2 on Gulfside Street.

A construction company built the exterior, but the interior was done by all volunteer help. Firefighters, policemen and other volunteers did the interior work, with only the materials being paid for by the City of Waveland.

Kenny was a person always willing to help his fellowman, no matter the circumstances. He was there, he was available to help anyone in trouble.

There is no organization we know of in Hancock County that works so close together as the firefighters and Chief Fayard's leadership in Waveland has helped develop cooperation among all the fire departments in Hancock County.

One firefighter told us how it was a joy to work for Chief Fayard, as he ran the fire department like one big happy family.

A tribute to Kenny is the Waveland Fire Department, how it stands today and what it will be in years to come.

We extend our condolences to his wife, sons, daughter, grandchild, mother, brothers, sister, mother-in-law, relatives, Hancock firefighters, and many, many friends.

We will all remember you Chief Fayard, our friend.

Farewell to Kenny

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As the late Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard of Waveland answered his last alarm Monday, the chairman of the Hancock County Firefighters Association read this farewell over the county's fire department radio.)

There comes a time in our lives when an individual is saddened because someone we have known has moved away from us.

Such is the case in the departure from this world of our comrade fireman, Chief Kenneth Fayard.

But, at the same time, we are comforted by the knowledge that the protection and the good that Chief Fayard has given us by his endeavors, his perseverance, and his willing heart to make our community a better place to live through adequate fire protection.

He was a personal friend to all of us and never hesitated when his assistance was requested.

He knew no working hour but made himself available any time.

His achievements were not for the city of Waveland alone, but always for the benefit of the entire county as well.

Chief Fayard leaves behind a challenge to all of us, and that is to continue with his example, to better fire protection for our area.

Well, Kenny, until we meet again, we will all remember you as a friend and a comrade.

PILOT PROJECT TO FARM AGRICULTURE BY CONGRESSMAN TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi
Regardless of whether you blame other causes, the fact is clear: The number of Americans who successfully run family farms in our country is dwindling.

Just 10 years ago, for example, more than 2.9 million farms produced the food and fiber upon which we depend. Estimates for 1991 put the number of American farms at 2.1 million, down 500,000.

I think the current estimate will get better as tax and budget cuts take effect. The tax cuts will help individuals to cope with inflation, but prices and many of the other problems and the budget cuts will hurt the farm.

But there is a solution in the meantime to help develop a sustainable and reliable source of food. Full-time, commercial farmers and ranchers to produce food for the nation and to provide a source of income for the farmer.

One of the reasons which emerged from the United States experience during World Wars I and II was that electrical energy could be conserved through the use of daylight saving time.

It was a lesson recalled in 1968 as Congress passed the Uniform Time Act, which called for the use of daylight saving time for six months each year, from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

Since then, Americans have set their clocks a head one hour in the spring and back one hour in the fall. On October 26, for example, clocks should be set back an hour.

Thanksgiving season in the area of football with the last football game of the year on Friday.

The Hancock Hawks, with their best record in many years, will play the John Eagles at the stadium.

The Hawks who are 4-0 in the season, can add another victory to their record if they continue to play like last week, defeating the Hancock Hawks.

The Hancock North Central Hawks will visit a strong Pearl River Central Friday. Pearl River is one of the contenders for the Deep South Championship and should give the Hawks a hard fight.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chows will travel to Vancleave to tangle with the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs do not have an impressive record this year overall, but are also one of the conference contenders.

The Pirates of Pass Christian could take Long Beach if they play the type of football they did last Friday against St. Stanislaus.

It is always a good contest when the next door neighbors vie, and the game in Long Beach should be a good one.

We hope students, parents, faculty and football fans will support their favorites this Friday.

On a visit to Buccaneer State Park over the weekend, we noted the many shades of Fall, especially in the leaves of the sweet gum trees.

The fiery reds are really beautiful at this time of year.

A longtime resident of Bay St. Louis, Robert Higdon Coleman was laid to rest by his Masonic Brothers last Friday.

We have talked to several members of the Masonic order who knew Mr. Coleman for many years. They speak very highly about his many deeds for his fellowman.

Mr. Coleman was instrumental in helping many burn victims get in the Shriner Burn Centers and he was also involved with the Masonic Orphanage in Meridian.

As one Masonic brother said, Coleman was always the quiet person, doing a lot of work and not making much noise.

Having attained the rank of 33rd Degree, he was dedicated to the Masons and fellowman.

We know Mr. Coleman will be missed by his wife, children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren in addition to his many friends and the people who became his friend because he helped them in times of need.

His memory will be with many for years to come.

It is time for us to extend a big thank you to the so many young people who helped make Hancock County's UNICEF collection on Halloween a success — the people who canvassed door to door and, of course, the people who made contributions.

Children of the poor nations of the world will benefit from your generosity.

Lillian Dillard, manager of the Hospitality Station on I-10 in Hancock County has informed us that she is in need of holiday decorations to use at the local facility.

If you have some Thanksgiving or Christmas decorations you are no longer in need of, Mrs. Dillard reports she will put them to good use.

Our Hospitality Station is one of the best we have seen, and we should all be very proud of the job being done by Lillian and her staff.

People call about Hancock's Hospitality Station all along the road as we found out on a recent trip to Florida when one of the truckers said they hear all good reports about the station in Hancock.

Christmas is fast approaching and many of us will find the time to mail packages and cards.

We hope we will be able to get our mail out early this Christmas season and everyone else will, too.

Mail minute mailers, always available at the U.S. Postal Service around Christmas.

National rankings at stake in USM-MSU battle Saturday

Continuing to give fans heart curdling failure once or twice each game, Mississippi State's football crew battles always tough Southern Mississippi Saturday in Jackson at 1:30 p.m. (CST). USM broke into the national ranking this week at number 25, and State is listed at 19th by the Associated Press.

And, this week's tilt at Mississippi Memorial Stadium follows the same pattern: those in attendance will again be left empty after the final horn.

State dropped a 14-10 decision to top 10 power Alabama in Tuscaloosa on the Crimson Tide's sophomore debut, consecutive victory by Bryant Denny Stadium last night, the ball at the Alabama nine-yard line in the final minute of the contest.

Before that the Bulldogs pulled out spine-tingling triumphs over Miami (Fla.) (4-10) and Auburn (1-7) in the fading moments, and State remains as a factor in the postseason bowl picture with a 6-3 mark.

Against MSU graduate Coach Bobby Collins' Golden Eagles, however, the Bulldogs will have the even longer task of bouncing back after the disheartening loss to Alabama last weekend.

USM played a similar contest against UA in Birmingham with the exception of a game-tying field goal on the final play to salvage a 12-11 standstill.

Now 6-0, Golden Eagles, paced by a defense which justifiably calls itself "The Nasty Bunch," have since scored shutouts over Memphis State (10-0) and North Texas State (22-0) on the road and are anxious for top 20 recognition.

Splendid quarterback Reggie Collier keys the Southern Mississippi offense with 49 completions in 78 attempts for 62.8 percent accuracy, 694 yards and four touchdowns. Last year's national scoring leader, Sammy Winder, has also been potent with 720 yards on 144 carries for a 4.9 average and five TDs.

Collier poses a two-way threat with 546 net yards passing on only 45 carries and a 6.8 average per run. He leads the team with nine scores via running.

Mississippi State will have to compete with its "Swarming Defense," a unit which caused a whopping 11 fumbles against Alabama and which had a school record by recovering seven of these fumbles.

On offense the Bulldogs have received threats in Glen Young and tight end Jerry Price while wingback Danny Kolitz has been providing clutch grabs in recent games.

The work from Vance Young, a tight end, has been significant with 383 yards on 22 catches and 14.2 yards per catch. Young is among the top three all-purpose players in the Southeastern Conference with 883 yards on 22 catches, receptions, and returns, an average of a whopping 39.9 yards each time he touches the oval.

Middle linebacker Johnnie Cooks continues to be the ring leader for State's defense with 144 yards on 14 tackles and 10.3 yards per tackle. He is also the team's leading tackler with 144 yards on 14 tackles and 10.3 yards per tackle.

PRC to open cage season Tuesday

Pearl River College's 1981 basketball season for the Wildcats and Lady Wildcats will begin at home Tuesday, Nov. 10, against Louisiana State University at Alexandria.

In fact, the Pearl River basketball teams have the comfortable position of playing five of their first six games at the PRC Coliseum. The PRC Wildcats will begin with Tyler, Tex., on Thursday, Nov. 12.

Tyler was ranked in the top 10 junior colleges at the time of its opening game at the PRC Coliseum.

And the Lady Wildcats will begin their season with a home game at the PRC Coliseum on Thursday, Nov. 12, against Louisiana State University at Alexandria.

The following week both PRC teams will start the week with games against North Texas State and East Mississippi State on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 13 and 14, respectively.

On Nov. 15, the Wildcats will travel to the PRC Coliseum to play against the Lady Wildcats.

Wildcats play Tigers in Booneville tonight

Pearl River College's Wildcats, fresh from locking up a post season playoff spot, hit the road this week for a non-divisional battle with the Northeast Tigers at Booneville tonight.

Last Saturday's 21-6 win over the Co. 100 Wildcats put the Wildcats with a 4-1-1 overall mark and a 3-2-1 overall ledger.

Pearl River is assured of post season play for the first time since the Wildcats won the state championship back in 1978.

The Northeast Tigers on the other hand have managed only one win this season and that came over conference patsy Coahoma. The 91 Tigers are a far cry from the playoff team they had a year ago.

This time last year the coach Billy Ward led Tigers were undefeated and ranked number one in the nation. They had long ago wrapped up a north division playoff spot. The Wildcats on the other hand had been having one and down and had a 20-20 record. The Tigers were the only team left on the Wildcats' schedule.

As it turned out, the Wildcats posted a 27-27 win over the number one team in the nation to post an overall 3-2-1 ledger for the year. It was a big win for Pearl River.

North Texas State on its last game of the playoffs. "I hope we are not too overjoyed about being in the playoffs," said head coach J.C. Arden. "I hope we don't have our heads up in the air. If we do they just may return us to our former state."

Pearl River and Northeast have played each other over the years and the only victory came by the Tigers' hands back in 1980 when they defeated the Wildcats 24-27.

"It's a long trip and short week for us," said Arden. "We have to meet them on Tuesday night. I just hope we are ready. If we are, we can add another victory to our list."

Game time for the Northeast contest has been set for 7:30 p.m. instead of the usual 7:00 p.m. Kickoff time, 7:00 p.m. out of Booneville, will carry the game live.

State cagers to open against Marathon Oil

With the season opener just one week away, Mississippi State's basketball team has been making preparations for a Nov. 12 midweek game with Marathon Oil Co. at Lexington, Ky. to Starkville, Miss., at 7:30 p.m. (CST).

Upper End Zone of the South Side of Humphrey Coliseum. These details are available now via order blanks at the MSU Athletic Business Office at Humphrey Coliseum and can also be acquired by mail.

Even though that company's stock is being traded around on and off Wall Street, its basketball fire is loaded with "beats."

Former All-Southeastern Conference center Jim Andrews of Kentucky, better known as a player, five of whom stand 6-8 or better, for the Oilers.

Seven-footer George Wydra of DePaul University (Ind.) and 6-11 David Schneider of Wayne State, in Detroit, are also impressive figures for the Oilers.

Wydra has been a well-known figure for the Oilers. He has been a well-known figure for the Oilers. He has been a well-known figure for the Oilers.

Mail orders should contain an additional $1.50 per order for postage and handling and can be made by writing: Season Basketball Tickets, P.O. Drawer 5327, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762.

Boyd has promised a well-drilled squad in 1981-82, and the Bulldogs have been making the best of their ap- parent lack of height by spending extra time on pre-season conditioning.

We're hoping that our team, which is basically two post men and a lot of guards, will use its quickness and defense to cause a dead-end for some of the taller people who will be trying to match up against us," Boyd related.

Brief

EXHIBITION GAME
The Lady Bulldog basketball team will play an intrasquad exhibition game on Nov. 12 as a preliminary to the "Marathon Oil" State-Marathon Oil exhibition game.

The Lady Bulldogs return 3 starters and six letter winners from last season's 17-12 team that went to the school's first-ever appearance in post-season play. The Lady Bulldogs, under fifth-year Head Coach Peggy Collins, will begin the 1981-82 season on Dec. 1 at home against Southwest Texas State.

MSU Head Coach Bob Boyd will make his debut in the contest, which is part of State's season ticket package. These packages include 49 games, including nine crucial SEC contests in Humphrey Coliseum, and can be purchased in three ways.

Courtside season tickets (limited quantity available) are available for $75 per seat. Season tickets on the upper and lower concourses are for the 15-game home schedule.

And for the first time in MSU basketball history, a special "Family Plan" season ticket at half-price, $30 for the first 100 seats, will be offered in the upper end zone of the South Side of Humphrey Coliseum. These details are available now via order blanks at the MSU Athletic Business Office at Humphrey Coliseum and can also be acquired by mail.

Pesticide contaminates migratory waterfowl in northcentral states

The National Wildlife Federation has called on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to ban any use or export of the toxic pesticide endrin.

The call from the nation's largest conservation organization came two weeks after the Montana Wildlife Federation announced that it had found high levels of the pesticide in ducks and geese.

Last spring endrin was legally sprayed on at least 120,000 acres of wheat in Montana to combat an outbreak of Army cutworms. Thousands of acres were also sprayed in Colorado, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Montana officials began testing migratory waterfowl after the Montana Wildlife Federation, an NWF affiliate, reported that it had found wildlife killed by endrin.

Agencies are now testing for endrin in waterfowl.

clear that other wildlife species will also be affected, including such endangered species as the whooping crane, bald eagle, and peregrine falcon.

Obviously, there is a need for a pesticide. However, the use of endrin, which is more toxic than the outlawed pesticide DDT, is simply unnecessary. The availability of less toxic but effective pesticides and new integrated pest management techniques make endrin an obsolete choice.

It is clear that a change in regulations is called for. EPA must act swiftly to ban all use of endrin in the country and since we do not want to export our environmental problems, the ban should cover export of this toxic pesticide as well as its manufacture.

The Montana Wildlife Federation is now calling for the ban.

Habitats in danger

Fate of ten crucial US ecosystems depends on future land use decisions

From the California desert to the Adirondack lakes, from the rolling hills of the Midwest to the rugged mountains of the West, ten crucial ecosystems are in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions.

The ecosystems are: the California desert, the Adirondack lakes, the rolling hills of the Midwest, the rugged mountains of the West, the Mississippi River Delta, the Florida Everglades, the Great Salt Lake, the Colorado River Basin, the Pacific Northwest, the Columbia River, and the San Joaquin River.

Each of these ecosystems is home to a unique and valuable collection of plants and animals. They also provide important services to humans, such as food, water, and recreation.

However, these ecosystems are in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions. For example, the California desert is being converted into agricultural land, and the Adirondack lakes are being drained for development.

and degree. How that argument is settled is sure to have a major impact on the future of these ecosystems.

Barrier Islands—The three hundred barrier islands that dot the U.S. coast from Maine to Texas are a buffer between the sea and adjacent marshes, which are havens for hundreds of species of coastal birds, fish, reptiles, and invertebrates. Because they are constantly changing, most barrier islands are unsuitable for development. Yet Americans have been building upon them at an alarming rate.

Mississippi Delta—The vast swamps and marshes of the Mississippi Delta are literally vanishing into the Gulf of Mexico. During the past 30 years, about 800 square miles of Louisiana wetlands have disappeared, and that loss is more than a third of the nation's total. The loss of these wetlands will have a major impact on the Gulf of Mexico's fisheries and wildlife.

build levees and drainage canals, they interfere with the natural flow of freshwater. With nothing to hold back the ocean sea, the marshes have rapidly deteriorated.

One highly productive ecosystem in the delta region is the Attakapas River basin, home to some 300 species of birds and 100 species of fish. Two years ago, a U.S. District Court ruling in favor of an NWR lawsuit granted protection for the region's bottomland hardwood swamps, which were being cleared at a rate of six square miles a year. Now, the provisions of the Clean Water Act, which protect this ecosystem, are being challenged in Congress.

Columbia River Basin—The Pacific Northwest's Columbia River has an enormous drainage basin extending across seven western states, providing habitat for everything from salmon to steelhead trout. The river's waters irrigate several million acres, and the basin is home to a variety of plants and animals. However, the basin is in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions.

a fraction of its former size. Only one small section of the Columbia is still open to navigation, and the rest is being considered for another dam.

California Desert—Sprawling across a fourth of the state, near the Los Angeles-San Diego megalopolis, the California desert is rapidly becoming the nation's most widely used outdoor area. Since 1970, off-road vehicles have denuded at least one million acres of the desert. Half of California's nonpetroleum mineral production takes place there.

Adirondack Lakes—The Adirondack lakes are a unique and valuable collection of plants and animals. They also provide important services to humans, such as food, water, and recreation. However, the lakes are in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions.

Eight species of wildlife, including the bighorn sheep, and the desert plants are now endangered in an ecosystem that looks rugged but is, in fact, delicate.

San Joaquin River—The San Joaquin River is a major waterway in California. It provides habitat for a variety of plants and animals. However, the river is in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions.

Florida Everglades—The Florida Everglades are a unique and valuable collection of plants and animals. They also provide important services to humans, such as food, water, and recreation. However, the Everglades are in danger of being destroyed by future land use decisions.

Training offered for marine license

The State of Louisiana is accepting applications for a two-year marine license program offered through the Louisiana Marine and Petroleum Institute in Houma.

Orientation classes will begin Nov. 18, Jan. 19 and March 2, 1982.

This orientation course is four weeks in length and after completion, the trainee is referred to marine companies for employment.

The training includes both classroom instruction and on-the-job training in the two-year vocational program. Those who complete the program will be eligible for a resident fee. Both school and employer are responsible for training with marine license. Using accommodations since the school does not presently have dormitories.

LAMPI, being a state-operated institution follows a policy of non-discrimination in

While on OJT the trainee earns the standard wage for the position he holds and completes job tasks for his or her job training.

The school is within Louisiana's Vocational Technical School System and is tuition-free to Louisiana residents.

Non-Louisiana residents are charged a modest tuition

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D

QUESTION A worldwide survey of U.S. military personnel shows that young people in uniform are, on the whole, not more likely to use illicit drugs than are civilian youngsters. What shows up most dramatically in the survey are sharp differences in drug use between the individual services.

Which branch of the armed forces uses the most marijuana per capita?

a) Air Force
b) Army
c) Marine Corps
d) Navy

ANSWER: Based on questionnaires completed by 31,532 sampling draws from 815 installations, the survey showed that 37% of the Marine Corps, 33% of the Navy, 25% of the Army and only 14% of the Air Force respondents reported getting the flu or some other medical virus in the past 60 days.

In terms of alcohol consumption, the survey indicated that the once-a-day Mating Corps followed closely by the Navy and the Army, suffered the least impact of alcohol.
